A Wonderful Sale! White China at Half Its Cost.

Overproduction! A pottery's sudden bankruptcy! Receivers' sale! And you've the whole story in a nutshell. Some Englishmen started a place near Clayborn, Ohio, about two years back and attempted to make inexpensive reproductions of the finer European porcelains. After sinking a fortune, they were forced to suspend-utterly ruined. They couldn't compete with the cheap labor of Europe.
When the creditors took possession of the plant they sent word to the big china and department stores that they intended disposing of the company's stock at once. They enclosed catalogues marking what lines were on hand. A typewritten slip was also enclosed, stating that there were many thousand pieces of porcelain which had not been decorated-same degree of quality as the rest, but perfectly plain. Now the price on this stuff was ridiculous. So much so that we had the daring to buy such a quantity of it that it took three cars

It is a well-known fact that tailors experience more suffering from headaches than any other class of industrial workers. The constant buzz of the sewing machines and the heavy atmosphere caused by the heating apparatus used for pressing and sponging clothing are responsible for this in a measure. A well-known merchant tailor of Philadelphia, a prominent man in his community, says: "For over ten years I was a 'presser,' then I became a partner of the establishment with which I am now connected. Having charge of the pressing and ironing department, I am compelled to spend most of my time in a room that is overheated and where the atmosphere is very heavy. This resulted in giving me frequent headaches, and I sometimes suffered great torture. The medicines prescribed by my physician brought me no relief, and I was on the verge of despair when a friend advised me to try Ripans Tabules. I did so, and the result was that the first two Tabules wrought an almost magic change. I escape headaches now, and no matter how hot the room is one Tabule does away with all suffering. I always carry some with me for an emergency, and can sincerely recommend them."
